DEMOCRATS TO CAUCUS TOMORROW.

ACTION IS UNPRECEDENTED
AND CALLED REVOLUTIONARY.

MOST IMPORTANT ACTION WILL BE SELECTION OF WAYS AND MEANS COMMITTEE TO REVISE TARIFF.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 18.—
"We won in the November elections because we pledged the people to correct the abuses of the Payne-Aldrich tariff act, and to stamp out Cannonism by restoring to the house
the right to legislate, which includes taking from the speaker the power to appoint the committees. This has been agreed and will be ratified at the Democratic caucus to be held in the hall of the House of Representatives on January 19, 1911."

This is the answer made by the Democrats when asked what they will do next December.

Representative John N. Garner, of Texas, Democratic whip, is authority for the statement that at a conference of the leaders just after the meeting of Congress, December 5, it was decided that if the Democrats were to keep faith and carry out their pledges in the next house it would be necessary to perfect the organization at the earliest possible moment, and the way to do this was to arrange for a party caucus, such as is held when the house is organized just before the opening of a new Congress. Hence the call for the caucus which will be held here tomorrow. It is to be a full party caucus, the 82 members-elect who emerge upon the discharge of their duties next December being urgently invited to attend to take part in the selection of the ways and means committee, the selection of the rules committee, and the committee on committees, and from present indications the majority will be present.

The holding of a party caucus,
such as has been called to meet in January, is without precedent; it is by many termed revolutionary, but then, as the standpat Republicans say, this has been a revolutionary Congress, and precedents have been cut from their moorings and sent adrift. And so the Democrats are merely keeping up with the procession.

While there is much interest in the proposed committee on committees, which is to relieve the speaker
from the task of making these appointments, the real work of the caucus, the work that deeply concerns the future of the Democrats, is the selection of the ways and means committee. This committee will be charged with the labor of preparing the amendments to the Payne-Aldrich tariff act promised the people by the Democrats during the last campaign.

As tentatively agreed upon the following will compose the majority of the ways and means committee: Representatives Underwood, Alabama,
James, Kentucky, Rainey, Illinois,
Harrison, New York, Randall, Texas,
Palmer, Pennsylvania, Pou, North Carolina, Denver, Ohio, Garrett, Tennessee, Shackelford, Missouri, Dixon, Indiana, Martin, Colorado and Peters, Massachusetts.

WIN OUT.

PRISONER IS RELEASED FROM THE CITY LOCKUP.

JOSEPH LEWIS IS TURNED LOOSE BY JUDGE TITUS AND TOLD TO GO AND TRANSGRESS
NO MORE.

Pleadings and tears before Judge
Titus accomplished for Joseph Lewis Tuesday morning what curses and threats before Mayor Greene Monday morning failed to accomplish and the young peddler was turned loose by the justice and told to go and forget to return.

The peddler's denunciation of the mayor and marshal after his arrest and fine Monday was such that he was immediately re-arrested on the charge of having violated the state law by peddling without a license and held in the city jail over night
to await the coming of the county sheriff.

He was given a preliminary hearing before Justice Titus Tuesday morning and was much more penitent than when he appeared in the mayor's court the day before. Lewis declared he was sent down here by a firm in Boston to dispose of some goods and told that there would be no trouble and that there were no laws, rules or ordinances to prevent him peddling in this state. He is but 19 years of age and has not been in this country very long, being unfamiliar with American ways and customs. He declared that if given his liberty he would take the first train for Jacksonville and the first boat
from that city for Boston.

The tender heart of Judge Titus was touched by the prisoner's earnest pleading and refused to hold him for the county authorities.

Stories of Wellington and Blucher.
I once met Wellington at dinner. He was then much aged, talked gravely and with great distinctness, ate but little, drank no wine and left early.
He was a member of the Union club
when I joined it, and I have heard a story that he became a member of Crockford's, the famous gambling resort, that he might blackball his sons
if they became candidates.

I remember the touching anecdote of how he and that old Prussian warrior Blucher met upon the field of Waterloo and mingled their tears over the bodies of the slain. The well known and much more probable story is told of Blucher that, having been entertained at a city dinner and thoroughly enjoying its gorgeous hospitality, he delighted his hosts by his admiration of London, concluding,
however, with the startling exclaima-tion, "What a splendid city it would be to sack!"—From Sergeant Ballandine's Experiences.

"I Don't Think."

Many correspondents have traced "I don't think" through many writers and speakers. But this writer, who has the habit of reading the Bible in bed
the last thing at night, suddenly came upon the seventeenth chapter of St.
Luke and the parable of the servant who merely did his duty: "Doth he thank that servant because he did the things that were commanded him? I trow not." Now, the Greek words are simply these in modern characters,
"Ou doko," which mean just "I don't think." Anyhow we cannot get better authority for the use of the expression which Christ employed in one of those lightning sketches he threw out as he walked and talked.—London Chronicle.

Snapshots of the Week

Arch Hoxsey and John B. Moisant, two famous aviators, both met their death on the same day—Moisant near New Orleans and Hoxsey near Los Angeles—while they were performing some of their remarkable feats. In naming a man to fill the place of Eugene Hale in the United States senate the Democrats, now in power in Maine, have selected Charles F. Johnson. Postal savings banks are now being tried out by the postoffice department as an initial demonstration. One has been opened in each of 30 cities. With the retirement of William E. Corey from the presidency of the United States Steel corporation on Jan. 30 Judge Elbert H. Gary, chairman of the board of directors, will have full sway in the management of the giant industry. The senior senator from West Virginia, Stephen B. Letcher, died in Washington from an unknown malady for which he had been treated unsuccessfully for some time.

ANCIENT EMBALMERS.

Which Impelled the Egyptians to Preserve the Dead.

To appreciate the motives which impelled the ancient Egyptians to invent the art of embalming it is necessary to turn our minds back nearly sixty centuries. Then Egyptians were in the habit of burying their dead in shallow holes scraped in the soil immediately beyond the limits of the cultivated land. As the habit of placing the body in hot sand it frequently happened that, instead of undergoing a process of decay, it became desiccated and preserved in an incorruptible form for an indefinite time. The burial of valuable and useful objects with the dead naturally led to grave robbing, which was already common in the earliest known prehistoric times in Egypt. The plundering of graves must have taught the people at large that the forces of nature were often sufficient to preserve a dead body. In this way it became a part of the religion of the Egyptians to regard the preservation of the body as the condition of the attainment of immortality.

The early Egyptians learned that the body when placed in a coffin or buried in a rock tomb usually underwent decomposition. It was a widespread belief that the stone "ate the flesh"—hence the word "sarcophagus." Artificial mummification, therefore, had its origin in an attempt to deprive the grave of its victory.—British Medical Journal.

PARIS STOCKBROKERS.

When They Fail They Are Always Treated as Criminals.

An agent de change (Paris stockbroker) can under the rule of the code of commerce never be adjudged bankrupt pure and simple, his insolvency always involving more or less criminal responsibility. In the absence of proof the penalty is hard labor for a term, but in case of fraud the punishment is no less than hard labor for life. The public, however, never suffers from the insolvency of an agent de change, because his liabilities, no matter what they amount to, are always taken care of and liquidated in full by the other members of the corporation, who contribute obligatorily each year to a sort of insurance fund as a reserve for this purpose. Besides, each of them must before being appointed make a deposit of 250,000 or 500,000 francs at the treasury, which allows them an interest of 2½ per cent. An agent de change, according to section 85 of the code of commerce, must not transact any commercial or banking business for his own account. He must have no financial interest in any commercial enterprise, whether in his own name or under an assumed name. He cannot even receive payment or settle any account on behalf of his clients. The penalty for the violation of this rule may be a fine of 1000 francs and eventually the disqualification of the offender.—Moody's Magazine.

Her Tribute to Emerson.

A poor washerwoman in Concord was seen to be hurrying her work and talking down her sleeves considerably before her usual hour for leaving. "What's going on," she informed her neighbors, with a pleased and rather confidential air.

"Where are you going, Bridget?" "To hear Mr. Emerson lecture." "Why, he is very deep, Bridget. Most of us can't understand him very well."

"I don't understand him, mum, but I want to see him stand up there and talk as if he thought everybody was as good as he was."

Family Preserves.

The following recipe was sent to the editor of a newspaper who had established a household column. It was evidently given by a person of experience:

To make a good jam place one finger or possibly two lightly on the upper edge of an open desk or bureau drawer, close the drawer quickly with the other hand and keep closed for one or three seconds.

Then, if, remove the finger or fingers, and plenty of interjections. This has been tried by every member of the family and has never failed.

FEATS OF MARKSMANSHIP.

Wonderful Shooting of Captain Bogardus and Dr. Carver.

Old gentlemen of the period just after the war will tell you sadly that there are no such shots as there used to be. In this connection it is interesting to note that $1,000 was wagered against $100 that the champion of the world could not hit a hundred consecutive birds. Many amateurs, not to speak of professionals, frequently make such a score without arousing comment in these days. Captain Bogardus was to be allowed three trials. If he lost the first two and made the third the money was his, and, by the way, he used a twelve gauge, full choke, ten pound gun, and his load was five drams of black powder with No. 9 shot. He loaded his own shells or had them loaded according to his directions.

While shooting in England his load was challenged by one of his defeated rivals, who asserted that the champion's phenomenal scores were the result of his superior shells. The captain suggested that in their next match both contestants should use his ammunition, to which the Englishman eagerly consented. The captain was delighted, for well he knew what would happen to the action of the light and delicate English gun under such a charge. Before the match had proceeded very far the Britisher withdrew—for massage.

With the invention and success of the ball tossing machine a craze for ridiculously high scores swept the country. Five thousand balls in 500 minutes, 5,194 out of 5,500, in seven hours and twenty minutes—these were some of the stunts that delighted the hearts of the gun people of that day. One man, the English crack, Dr. Carver, shot for six consecutive days, breaking 60,000 balls out of a possible 64,881. The wonder is that there remained of his shoulder anything more than pulp. True, it is on record that after the three-thousandth shot at such an exhibition in Gilmore's Garden, New York city, the contestant had to pry open his trigger fingers by main force and only succeeded in continuing in the match by frequent immersions of arm and shoulder in hot water.—Outing.

EDITING AN ENCYCLOPEDIA.

Strenuous Times in Getting Out an Early French Work.

Many adventures befell the French eighteenth century encyclopedia. More than once the production of that work, regarded by authority as revolutionary, had been stopped, eight days of imprisonment in the Bastille for the printer being one incident. At the very last moment, after Diderot had corrected the final proofs, the printer and his foreman secretly slashed the articles right and left, cutting out everything that seemed even possibly dangerous, and burned the manuscript. Diderot discovered the atrocity too late when referring to one of his own mutilated articles. But the most remarkable point is that for years very few persons knew of what had happened, even the contributors remaining in ignorance. They had had enough of their own articles when writing them.

Voltaire tells a pleasing story of Louis XV's conversion to the merits of the encyclopedia, according to the London Chronicle. The talk one night at a Trianon supper turned on sport and thence to gunpowder, as to the composition of which the party could not agree. Mme. de Pompadour lamented their all round ignorance. For instance, she herself did not know what her rouge was made of or how her silk hose were manufactured. "Tis a pity," said the Duc de la Valliere, "that his majesty confiscated our encyclopedias, which cost us 100 pistoles."

The king recalled that he had a copy, and three valets were sent for the twenty-one volumes and staggered back with seven each. Gunpowder, rouge, silk stockings, were all found there. Some found answers to legal problems that troubled them. The king discovered the rights of his crown set forth, and in his satisfaction he allowed the confiscated copies to be returned.

On Her Side.

"I didn't know you had any idea of marrying her." "I didn't. The idea was hers."—Lippincott's.

DAMES AND DAUGHTERS.

Mrs. Ella Flagg Young, who a year and a half ago became the first woman superintendent of schools in Chicago, has been re-elected to the office for another year by the board of education.

Mme. Bryn, wife of the new Norwegian minister of Washington, is the mother of four children. She is devoted to her family and her home and says that consequently she has comparatively little time for clubs and crusades.

Ellen Terry is sixty-two years old. Her first tour of America was made in 1883, when she was thirty-five, and she has since been to this country eight times. The fiftieth anniversary of her stage debut was celebrated in London in 1906.

Mrs. Champ Clark will be the first southern woman in many years to head congressional society if her husband succeeds in his ambition to become speaker of the next house. She has been prominent socially ever since she came to Washington with her husband sixteen years ago.

Miss Katherine McKensie, settlement worker and authoress, well known among Pittsburg women's organizations, has inaugurated a movement for an act of the legislature to screen or otherwise secure windows of hospitals so as to prevent delirious patients from committing suicide.

READY FOR A JOKE.

The Customs Official Had a Sense of Humor Himself.

In the smoking room of the Hotel des Iles Britanniques at the lovely resort of Mentone, on the French Riviera, some three years ago two Englishmen met. After half an hour's conversation the Englishman from Manchester said to his new acquaintance from London:

"I say, old fellow, would you mind taking a small parcel for me to Paris and have it sent to this address there? I'm leaving for Milan in the morning." The Londoner willingly consented to do this much for one of his countrymen.

"Awfully good of you. I'll have the boy take the parcel to your room in the morning," acknowledged the Englishman bound for Milan.

In the morning the package was left at the other's room.

"So that is what he calls a small parcel," he exclaimed. "And what might it contain? A package of such size the custom officers would certainly want opened. What—cigarettes and 3,000 of them! Is it possible that any one could have the audacity to ask such a favor—to smuggle 3,000 cigarettes into France! That chap shall pay for this, for I shall declare these cigarettes and leave them to be called for when the duty is paid."

The Londoner left Mentone that afternoon. The following day he was in Paris at the Gare de l'Est, his luggage ready for examination.

"Anything dutiable?" asked the customs officer.

"Nothing," replied the Englishman. "excepting in that parcel there."

"What does it contain?"

"Three thousand cigarettes," said the Londoner, with a smile upon his face—a smile of embarrassment at having such a parcel with him.

The Frenchman raised his hands in the air and laughed heartily. He, too, was as ready for a good joke as any one, and on each piece of the Englishman's luggage went his O. K. cross.

Hardly realizing what had happened, the Londoner found himself riding in a taxicab along the streets of Paris with the parcel of 3,000 cigarettes under his arm and nothing left to do but to deliver it as he had been asked.

BEAT THE BANK.

A French Naval Officer's Daring Expedition at Monte Carlo.

Those who have visited Monte Carlo have heard of if not seen the pitiful ruin of many an unfortunate person who has lost his last franc in playing at roulette in that palatial gambling den. All are not so fortunate as to have an armored cruiser at their disposal, as was the case with a French naval officer some years ago. He had gone ashore in the morning with naught in his pockets but his own earnings. By noon it was all gone. If he but had another 500 francs he was sure of winning. During those morning hours of failure he had worked out a system, and with just a few francs more success was certain. He would use the ship's money. Perhaps it was not just the right thing to do, but in another two hours he would be able to return it, would have recouped his own loss and have won who knows what fortune besides.

At sunset he returned to his ship a ruined man. The system, like all systems of the sort, had failed. What was to be done? To return home would mean a dishonorable discharge, lifelong disgrace, if not even more severe punishment. Death seemed the only alternative. But no; he would make one final attempt to save himself. He would force the authorities of Monte Carlo to return to him what he had lost or he would blow up their gambling palace!

As soon as he was again on board his order was: "Clear decks for action. Raise the muzzle of every gun and let them point toward the heights of Monaco."

Whatever the sailors might think of such an order mattered little; obey they must. With all haste a messenger was sent ashore with a note, and the captain meanwhile paced the deck in silence awaiting the reply—a reply which meant life or death to him.

Finally the messenger returned carrying a bag of gold coins. That night the French cruiser weighed anchor and quietly steamed out into the Mediterranean, her captain happy that he had fared no worse and the authorities of Monte Carlo only too glad to be rid of so dangerous a visitor.—Washington Star.

Virtuous Indignation.

"The reporter who came to see about the fancy ball was a horrid creature."

"Why?"

"He asked for my picture to publish with the account, and I told him indignantly I did not care for such notoriety. Then I had to go out of the room a minute and forget my picture, which was lying on the table near where he was standing, and—"

"He took it and put it in?"

"No; he left it there."—Baltimore American.

Bossing the Boss.

"Your clerks seem to be in a good humor," remarked the friend of the great merchant.

"Yes," replied the great merchant.

"My wife has just been in, and it tickles them to death to see somebody boss me around."—Philadelphia Record.

Bearded Women.

The bearded woman is not a fiction. A bearded woman was taken by the Russians at the battle of Poltava and presented to the czar. Her beard measured over a yard. The great Margaret, governess of the Netherlands, had a very long, stiff beard. Mile. Boes de Chene, born at Geneva in 1834, was exhibited in London in 1853 in her eighteenth year. She had a profuse head of hair, a large mustache and a strong black beard. There are other instances of bearded women about the authenticity of whom there is no room for doubt.—New York American.

Women Without Names.

"Womankind in Korea," says E. G. Kemp in "The Face of Manchuria," "suffers from a strange lack—the absence of names. A woman may possess a pet name; otherwise she has none. Frequently she does not even know her husband's name. If she becomes a Christian and receives baptism she acquires a name, and this must give her quite a new sense of dignity."

Nothing to Do but Loaf.

The most unfortunate man is the one who gets up in the morning with nothing to do and all day to devote to it.—Chicago Record-Herald.

Sincerity is the way to heaven. To think how to be sincere is the way of man.—Mencius.

STRENGTH.

Oh, do not pray for easy lives! Pray to be stronger men. Do not pray for tasks equal to your powers. Pray for powers equal to your tasks. Then the doing of your work shall be no miracle, but you shall be a miracle.—Phillips Brooks.

Gravelly, all under fence, 7 acres in all, 21-4 acres fine muck land, well drained, flowing with water, of 3 rooms and other buildings. This is a good proposition.

Fill your cigar case at Young's Pharmacy. All the leading brands of cigars left in stock

As the time for the city election draws closer more interest is being developed in other positions than that of the mayorship, which for weeks past has been in the forefront, with candidates enough to fill all the other city offices.

Within the past week several candidates have announced their willingness to serve the city in the capacity of the assessor, or collector, and even the city clerk may yet awake some morning to find that a misguided fellow citizen is anxious to deprive him of the honor and work of his position, to say nothing of the salary attached thereto.

W. H. Moore, assessor for the past year, is again in the field for that place. Mr. Moore has been a resident and business man of this city for a number of years and has his service of the past year to assist him in another term.

Mr. Moore has an opponent in the race, D. F. Randolph, who resides on Second avenue. Mr. Randolph is a property owner, has lived in Daytona for some years, and is interested in the city's progress and development. Mr. Randolph has had previous experience as assessor, elsewhere, and is well qualified for the position.

Harry Hartsburn is also a candidate for the assessors'hip and will make a strong showing. Having been associated for several years with the Peck-Hendricks company, Mr. Hartsburn is well known and has a strong following among the business men of the city. This will be a singularly dignified and without doubt an interesting race, even if no more candidates enter the field.

W. H. Edmondson, the present tax assessor, will be a candidate for re-election. Mr. Edmondson is too well known to need special mention. He has been a resident and taxpayer from the early days of Daytona and feels he can stand on his record of the past year as to his efficiency in the office.

At present only one other candidate has announced for the position, J. W. Booth, for a number of years in the employ of the Hingham & Haley company and at one time proprietor of the South Animal Den in this city, would like to serve the city in the capacity of collector.

Mr. Booth is well known to a majority of the citizens of Daytona and if elected will make a faithful and efficient officer.

There is still time for other citizens to get the office holding here in their business and other announcements for the various offices may not be made.
